I took advantage of the opportunity to fill Minshall in on recent developments in the Middle East, including the Agency's role in the cease fire, and on the Sino/Soviet relations. I told Minshall to feel free to call [redacted] whom I am alerting to Minshall's visit.

7. [redacted] Jim Knowles, Director of Research, Joint Economic Committee, called to say that Dr. Michael Boretsky of Commerce Department was sending over some revisions in his paper which he hoped would resolve the differences between his and the Agency's estimates regarding the Soviet economy. Knowles doubted that Boretsky's revisions would solve the problem, and I asked Dr. Edward Allen, OER, to call Knowles to discuss the matter in detail.
